ABSTRACT

A good abstract explains in one line why the paper is important. It then goes on to give a summary of your major results, preferably couched in numbers with error limits. The final sentences explain the major implications of your work. A good abstract is concise, readable, and quantitative. The length is preferred to be within 1-2 paragraphs of approximately 400 words. Abstracts generally do not have citations. Information in title should not be repeated.

- Introduction of your work
- Motivation/Why?
- What you do
- How? Methodology
- Outcome/Application/impact

CHAPTER 1

INTRODUCTION

1.1 Introduction

Give a general introduction of your work. The whole thesis should be written in times new roman, justified text, 1.5 line spacing, and a font size of 12 pt without bold.

1.2 First level heading

1.2.1 Second level heading

1.2.1.1 Third level heading

2.1 Guidelines for figures and tables

Every figure/table should have a caption and the figure/table must be mentioned in the text as example here. “The components of a typical DSC are shown schematically in Fig. 1.1.”

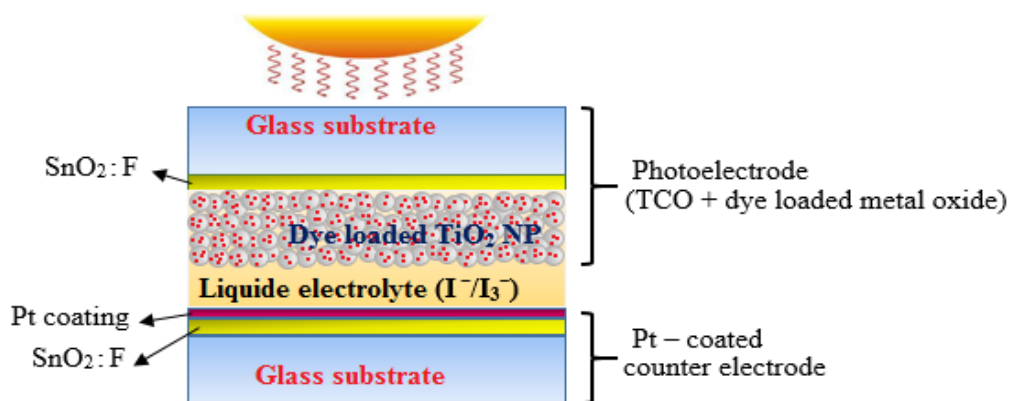

Fig. 1.1 Schematic of a simple DSC structure

In addition, you should remember the following things, a) the text inside the figure should be clear and readable, b) The figure/table should be center justified, c) If you copy the figure/table from anywhere, you must need to cite it at the caption, d) The table caption should be placed at the top of the table.

FORMAT OF CITATIONS

Example of citing a reference

Burning of the fossil fuels causes a huge quantity of CO₂ which is known as greenhouse gas, is responsible for of global warming [1].

Example of citing two references

The generation of electricity at dye-sensitized oxide electrodes in electrochemical cells was discovered in the late 1960's [7], [8].

Example of citing more than two references

However, the overall power conversion efficiency could not exceed over 2% due to the poor charge-collection efficiency from the dye-molecules [9]-[12].

or

The band gap, composition, morphology, and thickness of the metal oxide layer influence the charge collection, transportf, and light harvesting properties [10], [12]-[15].

REFERENCES

Do not include chapter number for the references, rather just write “REFERENCES”. Font size of heading will be 14 pt. However, the font size of the text for references will be 10 pt.

Format for book

[1] A. A. Author, Title of the book (in italics), Edition, Volume (if a multivolume work), Place of publication: Publisher, Year, page number(s) (if appropriate).

Example for book

Format for Journal

[#] A. A. Author of article. "Title of article", Title of Journal, Vol. #, no. #, pp. page number/s, year.

Example for Journal article

Format for Conference

[#] Authors, "Title of article", Name of the conference, Venue, date, year.

Example for conference

APPENDIX

It is not compulsory to include an appendix. However, if you include, the font size would be 10 point, times new roman, with a line spacing of 1.15.
